

THE ULTIMATE GUIDE TO PRINTING ON METAL

Metal prints are a unique way to showcase your art and highlight the true beauty of your photos.

DIBOND METAL PRINTS

The image is printed directly onto the brushed aluminum surface using UV-cured ink. The white parts of the image fall away to reveal the brushed aluminum underneath.

Dibond is a great option for bold and abstract images, with a lot of white space.

CHROMALUXE METAL PRINTS

ChromaLuxe prints are created using heat and pressure to transfer the image from paper to the aluminum surface. The white polymer finish soaks up the ink during sublimation creating highly saturated, vivid colors.

ChromaLuxe is ideal for printing photos with lots of bright colors and contrast.

BENEFITS OF PRINTING ON METAL:

- High definition aluminum finish
- Clear and vibrant colors
- Frameless, ready to hang design
- Create custom cut-out shapes
- Durable and long lasting
- ChromaLuxe is waterproof and scratch resistant

SLEEK AND MODERN METAL PRINTS

3 Things to Consider Before Printing on Metal

1: Choice of Finish, Surface, and Shape

- Choose Dibond for a unique, industrial look. White areas in the image will reveal the underlying metal.
- ChromaLuxe can be printed in glossy or matte.
 - Glossy creates vibrant, highly saturated colors.
 - Matte is best for a muted, vintage, or rustic look.
- The white polymer finish on ChromaLuxe prints makes them vivid, durable, and easy to clean.
- Cut any metal print into a customizable shape.

2: Photo Selection

- For best results choose sharp, high-quality, high-resolution photos.
- Black and white photos or modern images featuring architecture or abstract landscapes are best for Dibond metal prints.
- Images with high contrast and bold colors, especially blacks and blues, are ideal for ChromaLuxe prints.

3: Print and Panel Quality

- Choose high quality materials and expert printers.
- ChromaLuxe is the industry standard for metal panels. Don't fall for "off-brand" aluminum panels with inferior quality and durability.
- A top-tier printing service will check your image file for resolution and provide high-quality finishing.
